1	7	CMA9	kammaṭṭhāna: vipassanā	I. sīla-visuddhi	I. purification of virtue: four kinds of purified virtue
2	7	CMA9	kammaṭṭhāna: vipassanā	II. citta-visuddhi	II. purification of mind: access and absorption concentration
3	7	CMA9	kammaṭṭhāna: vipassanā	III. diṭṭhi-visuddhi: lakkhaṇa-rasa-paccupaṭṭhāna-padaṭṭhāna nāma-rūpa-pariggaho	III. purification of view: understanding characteristics, etc., of mental and material phenomena: -> the discernment of mind and matter with respect to their characteristics, functions, manifestations, and proximate causes. -> it helps to purify one of the wrong view of a permanent self. This purification is arrived at in the course of meditation by discerning the personality as a compound of mental and material factors which occur interdependently, without any controlling self within or behind them. This stage is also called the analytical knowledge of mind-and-matter (nāma-rūpa-vavatthāna-ñāṇa) because the mental and material phenomena are distinguished by way of their characteristics, etc.
4	7	CMA9	kammaṭṭhāna: vipassanā	IV. kaṅkhā-vitaraṇa-visuddhi: tesam eva ca nāma-rūpānaṃ-paccaya-pariggaho	IV. purification by overcoming doubt: discernment of conditions for mental and material phenomena (that same mind and matter): -> it develops the knowledge which removes doubts about the conditions for mind-and-matter during the three periods of time—past, present, and future. It is achieved by applying, during the contemplative process, one's knowledge of dependent arising in order to understand that the present compound of mind-and-matter has not arisen by chance or through a hypothetical cause such as a creator god or primordial soul, but has come into being from previous ignorance, craving, clinging and kamma. One then applies this same principle to the past and future as well. This stage is also called the knowledge of discerning conditions (paccaya-pariggaha-ñāṇa)
5	7	CMA9	kammaṭṭhāna: vipassanā	V. maggāmagga-ñāṇadassana-visuddhi: 1. sammasana-ñāṇa 2. udayabbaya-ñāṇa (taruṇa)	V. purification by knowledge and vision of path and not path: 1. Knowledge of comprehension: the mental and material phenomena are explored in terms of the three characteristics. 2. Knowledge of rise and fall (tender phase): distinguishing wrong path from right path of contemplation
6	7	CMA9	kammaṭṭhāna: vipassanā	VI. paṭipadā-ñāṇadassana-visuddhi: 2. udayabbaya-ñāṇa (balavā) 3. bhaṅga-ñāṇa 4. bhaya-ñāṇa 5. ādīnava-ñāṇa 6. nibbidā-ñāṇa 7. muñcitu-kamyatā-ñāṇa 8. paṭisaṅkhā-ñāṇa 9. saṅkhārupekkhā-ñāṇa 10. anuloma-ñāṇa	VI. purification by knowledge and vision of the way: 2. Knowledge of rise and fall (mature phase) 3. Knowledge of dissolution 4. Knowledge of fearfulness 5. Knowledge of danger 6. Knowledge of disenchantment 7. Knowledge of desire for deliverance 8. Knowledge of reflection 9. Knowledge of equanimity towards formations 10. Knowledge of conformity
7	7	CMA9	kammaṭṭhāna: vipassanā	VII. ñāṇadassana-visuddhi	VII. purification by knowledge and vision: Knowledge of four supramundane paths

8	3	CMA9	lakkhaṇāni	1. anicca-lakkhana	1. the characteristic of impermanence: the mode of rise and fall and change, that is, reaching non-existence after having come to be.
9	3	CMA9	lakkhaṇāni	2. dukkha-lakkhana	2. the characteristic of suffering: the mode of being continuously oppressed by rise and fall
10	3	CMA9	lakkhaṇāni	3. anatta-lakkhana	3. the characteristic of non-self: the mode of being insusceptible to the exercise of mastery, that is, the fact that one cannot exercise complete control over the phenomena of mind and matter.
11	3	CMA9	anupassanā	1. aniccānupassanā	1. the contemplation of impermanence, which discards the sign of perversion, becomes the door to emancipation termed contemplation of the signless: -> the contemplation of impermanence is termed contemplation of the signless because it abandons "the sign of perversion" (vipallāsa-nimitta), that is, the deceptive appearance of permanence, stability, and durability which lingers over formations owing to the perversion of perception. -> when insight reaches its culmination, it settles upon one of the three contemplations—of impermanence, or suffering, or non-self—as determined by the inclination of the meditator. According to the Commentaries, one in whom faith is the dominant faculty settles upon the contemplation of impermanence. -> it is the noble path that is called emancipation, and the contemplation leading to the path that is called the door to emancipation.
12	3	CMA9	anupassanā	2. dukkhānupassanā	2. the contemplation of suffering, which discards desire through craving, becomes the door to emancipation termed contemplation of the desireless: -> the contemplation of suffering is termed contemplation of the desireless because it terminates desire by abandoning the false perception of pleasure in formations. -> one in whom concentration is the dominant faculty settles upon the contemplation of suffering.
13	3	CMA9	anupassanā	3. anattānupassanā	3. the contemplation of non-self, which discards the clinging to a self, becomes the door to emancipation termed contemplation of the void: -> the contemplation of non-self is termed contemplation of the void because it sees formations as being void of a self, a living being, a person. -> one in whom wisdom is the dominant faculty settles upon the contemplation of non-self.
14	3	CMA9	vimokkhā	1. suññata-vimokkha	1. the void emancipation: emancipation through the contemplation of non-self -> when the meditator attains the path through the contemplation of nonself, the path makes Nibbāna its object through the aspect of voidness as devoid of self.
15	3	CMA9	vimokkhā	2. animitta-vimokkha	2. the signless emancipation: emancipation through the contemplation of impermanence -> when he attains the path through the contemplation of impermanence, the path makes Nibbāna its object through the signless aspect—as devoid of the sign of formations.
16	3	CMA9	vimokkhā	3. appaṇihita-vimokkha	3. the desireless emancipation: emancipation through the contemplation of suffering -> when he attains the path through the contemplation of suffering, the path makes Nibbāna its object through the desireless aspect—as being free from the desire of craving.
17	3	CMA9	vimokkha-mukhāni	1. suññatānupassanā	1. the contemplation of the void = the contemplation of non-self (anattānupassanā)

18	3	CMA9	vimokkha-mukhāni	2. animittānupassanā	2. the contemplation of the signless = the contemplation of impermanence (aniccānupassanā)
19	3	CMA9	vimokkha-mukhāni	3. appaṇihitānupassanā	3. the contemplation of the desireless = the contemplation of suffering (dukkhānupassanā)
20	4	CMA9	sīla-visuddhi	1. pātimokkha-saṃvara-sīla	1. virtue regarding restraint according to the Pātimokkha: perfect adherence to the rules laid down in the Pātimokkha, the code of fundamental disciplinary rules binding upon a Buddhist monk. This code consists of 227 rules of varying degrees of gravity.
21	4	CMA9	sīla-visuddhi	2. indriya-saṃvara-sīla	2. virtue regarding restraint of the sense faculties: the exercise of mindfulness in one's encounter with sense objects, not allowing the mind to come under the sway of attraction towards pleasant objects and repulsion towards unpleasant objects.
22	4	CMA9	sīla-visuddhi	3. ājīva-pārisuddhi-sīla	3. virtue consisting in purity of livelihood: the manner in which a bhikkhu acquires the necessities of life. He should not acquire his requisites in a manner unbecoming for a monk, who is dedicated to purity and honesty.
23	4	CMA9	sīla-visuddhi	4. paccaya-sannissita-sīla	4. virtue connected with the use of the requisites: the bhikkhu should use the four requisites—robes, almsfood, lodging, and medicines—after reflecting upon their proper purpose.
24	2	CMA9	citta-visuddhi	1. upacāra-samādhi	1. access concentration: The other approach, called the vehicle of pure insight (suddhavipassanā-yāna), does not employ the development of calm as a foundation for developing insight. Instead the meditator, after purifying his morality, enters directly into the mindful contemplation of the changing mental and material processes in his own experience. As this contemplation gains in strength and precision, the mind becomes naturally concentrated upon the ever-changing stream of experience with a degree of concentration equal to that of access concentration. This moment-by-moment fixing of the mind on the material and mental processes in their present immediacy is known as momentary concentration (khaṇika-samādhi). Because it involves a degree of mental stabilization equal to that of access concentration, this momentary concentration is reckoned as purification of mind for the suddhavipassanā-yānika meditator, the meditator who adopts the vehicle of pure insight. Such a meditator is also called a "dry insight worker" (sukkha-vipassaka) because he develops insight without the "moisture" of the jhānas.
25	2	CMA9	citta-visuddhi	2. appanā-samādhi	2. absorption concentration: The Pali Buddhist tradition recognizes two different approaches to the development of insight. One approach, called the vehicle of calm (samatha-yāna), involves the prior development of calm meditation to the level of access concentration or absorption concentration as a basis for developing insight. One who adopts this approach, the samatha-yānika meditator, first attains access concentration or one of the fine-material or immaterial-sphere jhānas. Then he turns to the development of insight by defining the mental and physical phenomena occurring in the jhāna as mentality-materiality and seeking their conditions, after which he contemplates these factors in terms of the three characteristics. For this meditator, his prior attainment of access or absorption concentration is reckoned as his purification of mind.

26	2	CMA9	maggāmagga-ñāṇadassana-visuddhi	1. sammasana-ñāṇa	1. Collects them into groups: This shows the preparation for knowledge of comprehension (sammasana-ñāṇa), the phase in the development of insight wherein the mental and material phenomena are explored in terms of the three characteristics. The meditator first considers all materiality—whether past, future, or present, internal or external, gross or subtle, inferior or superior, far or near—as comprised by the materiality aggregate. Similarly, he considers all feelings, perceptions, mental formations, and acts of consciousness to be comprised by their respective aggregates—the feeling aggregate, the perception aggregate, the formations aggregate, and the consciousness aggregate.
27	2	CMA9	maggāmagga-ñāṇadassana-visuddhi	1. sammasana-ñāṇa	2. He next comprehends, with the knowledge of comprehension: This shows the actual ascription of the three characteristics to the formations collected into the five aggregates. -> All those formations are characterized by "impermanence in the sense of destruction" (khayaṭṭhena) because they undergo destruction exactly where they arise, and do not pass on to some other state retaining their identity; -> they are "suffering in the sense of fearfulness" (bhayaṭṭhena) because whatever is impermanent provides no stable security and thus is to be feared; -> they are "nonself in the sense of corelessness" (asārakaṭṭhena) because they lack any core of self or substance or any inner controller.
28	2	CMA9	maggāmagga-ñāṇadassana-visuddhi	1. sammasana-ñāṇa	3. By way of duration, continuity, and moment: -> "By way of duration" (addhāna) means in terms of an extended period of time. One begins by considering that the formations in each single lifetime are all impermanent, suffering, and non-self, then one progressively reduces the periods: to the three stages of a single life, to the ten decades, to each year, month, fortnight, day, hour, etc., until one recognizes that even in a single step formations are impermanent, painful, and non-self. -> "By way of continuity" (santati) means by way of a continuous series of similar mental or material phenomena. -> "By way of moment" (khaṇa) means by way of momentary mental and material phenomena.
29	2	CMA9	maggāmagga-ñāṇadassana-visuddhi	2. udayabbaya-ñāṇa (taruṇa)	4. The knowledge of rise and fall: is the knowledge in contemplating the arising and cessation of formations. -> by "rise" is meant the generation, production, or arising of states; -> by "fall" is meant their change, destruction, dissolution. -> the knowledge of rise and fall is exercised "by way of condition" (paccaya-vasena) when one sees how formations arise through the arising of their conditions and cease through the cessation of their conditions. -> it is exercised "by way of moment" (khaṇa-vasena) when one contemplates the actual generation and dissolution of the momentary phenomena in the present moment as they arise and pass away.

30	2	CMA9	maggāmagga-ñāṇadassana-visuddhi	2. udayabbaya-ñāṇa (taruṇa)	5. As he does so: The knowledge of rise and fall occurs in two phases. During the first, "tender" knowledge of rise and fall, as the process of contemplation gains momentum, ten "imperfections of insight" (vipassanupakkilesā) arise in the meditator: 1. he may witness an aura of light (obhāsa) emanating from his body. 2. he experiences unprecedented zest (pīti) 3. tranquillity (passaddhi) 4. happiness (sukha) 5. his resolution (adhimokkha) increases 6. he makes a great exertion (paggaha) 7. his knowledge (ñāṇa) ripens 8. his mindful awareness (upaṭṭhāna) becomes steady 9. he develops unshaken equanimity (upekkhā) 10. underlying these experiences there is a subtle attachment (nikanti)—an enjoyment of these experiences and a clinging to them.
31	2	CMA9	maggāmagga-ñāṇadassana-visuddhi	2. udayabbaya-ñāṇa (taruṇa)	6. The discrimination of the characteristics of what is the path, etc.: -> when such elevated experiences occur to a meditator, if he lacks discrimination he will give rise to the misconception that he has reached the supramundane path and fruit. He will then drop his insight meditation and sit enjoying these experiences, unaware that he is clinging to them. -> but if he possesses discrimination, he will recognize these states as mere natural by-products of maturing insight. He will contemplate them as impermanent, suffering, and non-self and proceed with his insight contemplation, without becoming attached to them. -> this discrimination between the ten imperfections as not being the path, and the practice of insight contemplation as being the correct path, is called purification by knowledge and vision of what is the path and what is not the path.
32	8	CMA9	paṭipadā-ñāṇadassana-visuddhi	2. udayabbaya-ñāṇa (balavā)	2. Knowledge of rise and fall (mature): This is the same knowledge as that which preceded the imperfections of insight, but when the imperfections have been overcome, it now matures and develops with increased strength and clarity.
33	8	CMA9	paṭipadā-ñāṇadassana-visuddhi	3. bhaṅga-ñāṇa	3. Knowledge of dissolution: When the meditator's knowledge becomes keen, he no longer extends his mindfulness to the arising or presence of formations, but brings it to bear only on their cessation, destruction, fall, and breakup. This is knowledge of dissolution.
34	8	CMA9	paṭipadā-ñāṇadassana-visuddhi	4. bhaya-ñāṇa	4. Knowledge of the fearful: As the meditator contemplates the dissolution of formations in all three periods of time, he recognizes that all such dissolving things in all realms of existence are necessarily fearful.
35	8	CMA9	paṭipadā-ñāṇadassana-visuddhi	5. ādīnava-ñāṇa	5. Knowledge of danger: By recognizing that all formations are fearful, the meditator sees them as utterly destitute of any core or any satisfaction and as nothing but danger. He also understands that only in the unconditioned, free from arising and destruction, is there any security.
36	8	CMA9	paṭipadā-ñāṇadassana-visuddhi	6. nibbidā-ñāṇa	6. Knowledge of disenchantment: When he sees all formations as danger, he becomes disenchanted with them, and takes no delight in the field of formations belonging to any realm of existence.

37	8	CMA9	paṭipadā-ñāṇadassana-visuddhi	7. muñcitu-kamyatā-ñāṇa	7. Knowledge of desire for deliverance: is the desire, arisen in the course of contemplation, of being delivered from the whole field of formations and escaping from it.
38	8	CMA9	paṭipadā-ñāṇadassana-visuddhi	8. paṭisaṅkhā-ñāṇa	8. Knowledge of reflective contemplation: In order to be delivered from the whole field of formations, the meditator again re-examines those same formations, attributing the three characteristics to them in various ways. When he clearly reviews those formations as marked by the three characteristics, this is knowledge of reflective contemplation.
39	8	CMA9	paṭipadā-ñāṇadassana-visuddhi	9. saṅkhārupekkhā-ñāṇa	9. Knowledge of equanimity towards formations: After he has passed through the reflective contemplation, the meditator sees nothing in formations to be taken as "I" and "mine," so he abandons both terror and delight and becomes indifferent and neutral towards all formations. Thus there arises in him knowledge of equanimity towards formations.
40	8	CMA9	paṭipadā-ñāṇadassana-visuddhi	10. anuloma-ñāṇa	10. Knowledge of conformity: This knowledge (also rendered "adaptation") is the knowledge in the sense-sphere cittas that arise preceding the change-of-lineage citta in the cognitive process of the supramundane path. This phase of insight is called conformity because it conforms to the functions of truth both in the preceding eight kinds of insight knowledge and in the path attainment to follow.
41	1	CMA9		11. gotrabhū-ñāṇa	11. Knowledge of the change of lineage: the change-of-lineage consciousness (gotrabhū-citta), having Nibbāna as its object, occurs, overcoming the lineage of the worldlings and evolving the lineage of the noble ones. -> This citta is the first advertence to Nibbāna and the proximity condition for the supramundane path. It is called change-of-lineage because it marks the transition from the "lineage" or family of the worldlings (puthujjana-gotra) to the lineage or family of the noble ones (ariya-gotra). -> However, while this knowledge is like the path in that it cognizes Nibbāna, unlike the path it cannot dispel the murk of defilements that conceals the Four Noble Truths. -> In the approach to the second and higher paths this mind-moment is called vodāna, cleansing, instead of change-of-lineage because the practitioner already belongs to the lineage of the noble ones.

42	3	CMA9	ñāṇadassana-visuddhi	12. magga-ñāṇa	12. Knowledge of the path: immediately after this (gotrabhū-citta), the path (of stream-entry), fully understanding the truth of suffering, abandoning the truth of its origin, realizing the truth of its cessation, and developing the truth of the path to its cessation, enters upon the (supramundane) cognitive process of absorption. -> Insight leading to emergence (vuṭṭhāna-gāminī-vipassanā): This is the culminating phase of insight preceding the arising of the supramundane path. The path is called emergence because, objectively, it emerges from formations and takes Nibbāna as object, and because subjectively it emerges from defilements. -> The path consciousness (maggacitta) simultaneously performs four functions, one with respect to each of the four truths. These four functions, mentioned here, are the full understanding (pariññā) of suffering; the abandoning (pahāna) of craving, its origin; the realization (sacchikiriya) of Nibbāna, its cessation; and the development (bhāvanā) of the Noble Eightfold Path. -> For one of sharp faculties who has skipped the preparatory moment three fruition cittas occur following the path; for others, who have gone through the preparatory moment, two fruition cittas occur.
43	3	CMA9	ñāṇadassana-visuddhi	13. phala-ñāṇa	13. Knowledge of the fruit: after that (the path), two or three moments of fruition consciousness arise and cease. Then there is subsidence into the life-continuum.
44	3	CMA9	ñāṇadassana-visuddhi	14. paccavekkhaṇa-ñāṇa	14. Reviewing knowledge: the wise person reviews the path, fruit, Nibbāna, and he either reviews or does not review the defilements destroyed and the remaining defilements. -> After each of the four supramundane path attainments, the disciple reviews the path, fruition, and Nibbāna; usually, but not invariably, he reviews as well the defilements abandoned and the defilements remaining. -> there are a maximum of nineteen kinds of reviewing knowledge: five each for each of the first three paths, and four for the final path. This is because an Arahant, who is fully liberated, has no more defilements remaining to be reviewed.
